Distillation and Synthesis Exhibition by Pam Harmer

Pam started as a painter, but moved to 3-D work as soon as she left college in 1976. Drawing is very much the backbone of her work, for research, discovery, preparation and exploration of ideas for sculpture and lettering. Pam's ideas have evolved in sculpture from the landscape of hills, valleys and woodland, in which we live. "Carving the stone is a slow process and one has to work with it. One needs strength and stamina but not brute force, for it is a delicate process. One has to yield to the stone and the stone yields to one"

10.00 - 16.00 Monday to Saturday 14.00 - 16.00 Sunday, Corinium Museum, Park Street, Cirencester, Gloucestershire, GL7 2BX. 01285 655611
